

NICOLL WITHDRAWS

He Declares Further Market Investigation to Be Useless.

An Allegation that Witnesses Are Under Official Intimidation.

The Comptroller Indignantly Denies Being Paid by Tammany Hall.

De Lancy Nicoll opened the proceedings before the Commissioners of Accounts this morning by withdrawing from the investigation into the allotment of stands in the new West Washington Market.

He did not go out, however, without leaving the impression that he had been there. In stating his reason for withdrawing Mr. Nicoll addressed the Commissioners, reviewing the proceedings already had and arraigning the Comptroller's office. He said, among other things:

"It has been suggested in interviews published in the Sunday papers that for my services in this investigation I am paid with money from the treasury of Tammany Hall; that I am paid by that organization to 'pound' the Comptroller and the County Democracy.

"I desire to refute that statement. No one has paid me a cent excepting my clients, the marketmen who were excluded in the allotment made by the Comptroller.

"In withdrawing from participation in this investigation, I want to say that I have no public duty to perform. I represent only twenty or thirty clients who, instead of paying their money to secure stands, chose rather to investigate the methods by which stands were allotted.

When I was asked to take charge of this investigation I said it must be thorough and complete. I was not to be paid, and then I only consented to appear when I was assured that the Commissioners of Accounts desired my co-operation and assistance.

"Everybody that my clients charged in their letter to the Mayor has been proven by the evidence which is before you. The case is fully made out. Money was paid for stand permits, while permits were granted to political leaders and their associates of their stands to my clients at a profit.

"We have even proven in one instance that the Comptroller encouraged the sale of stands, and was consulted as to the amount for which a stand should be sold.

"We had reached a point in the investigation where we were about showing the seating made of corruption at the bottom of this whole affair. Bribery was proven when the Comptroller stepped in and out of the head of the man who confessed that he had been bribed and blackmailed.

"After this, what could my clients do? They committed with me as to their course and I said to them: 'Gentlemen, the Comptroller has made it impossible to prove further acts of bribery and blackmail, and there is no use of proceeding further.'

"I understand that the revocation of Mr. Kilby's permit presented temporary, but the threat still exists and I am sure that he will be forced to retire from the market.

"Mr. Nicoll said that the attitude of the Corporation Counsel in the investigation had changed. He had had an interview with that official, and he had been assured and satisfied that the investigation would be carried on on the lines on which he (Mr. Nicoll) had begun it.

"The Comptroller, he said, could not look upon the Corporation Counsel as his personal counsel.

"Mr. Nicoll closed by offering all the memoranda and other information regarding the case in his possession for the use of the Commissioners.

"Commissioner Holohan, in commenting on Mr. Nicoll's remarks, said:

"The Commissioners fully appreciate the unfortunate situation of affairs. We entered upon this investigation under the instruction of our superior officer with a determination to make it as complete and as full as we could. I will say right here that it would be much more pleasant for me if we could send a report to the Mayor vindicating the officials of the Market.

"That we have been in any way actuated by political reasons in this investigation I wish to deny. Simply because we found it a political organization, it must not be imagined that we are to be used as a club to knock down a prominent official of another organization. No person or party ever succeeded by vilifying another person or party.

"It was indeed, an unfortunate circumstance, this revocation of Mr. Kilby's permit, but we do not wish to question the Comptroller's action and we do not intend to carry out the examination on the line we have laid down.

"To do that, I think that we should be allowed to choose counsel to assist us, and I shall ask the Corporation Counsel that he designate Mr. Nicoll to do that service.

"One of the most important parts of the investigation is yet to come—the examination of the Comptroller's office. We should have the assistance of counsel who is thoroughly familiar with the mass of testimony already taken, when that point is reached."

AN INSANE HOUR.

At 3 o'clock this morning Mrs. Margaret Ray, aged twenty-five, the wife of Druggist Robert Ray, of 11 Varick street, ran out of the house in her bare feet, while laboring under the delusion that some persons were trying to poison her. She acted in a violent manner, and Policeman Powers found it necessary to take her in charge. At Jefferson Market she told Justice Duffy that her husband wanted to get rid of her, and that she was not insane. She was committed for examination as to her sanity.

Policeman W. G. Burke, of the Sixteenth Precinct, was called into 146 Seventh avenue, at 3 o'clock this morning, to arrest Herman Richter, who had shown evidences of insanity. He was also committed for examination.

$500, or Cure Your Catarrh.

For a long series of years the manufacturers of Dr. SANC'S CATARRH REMEDY, who are thoroughly responsible financially, as any one can easily ascertain by proper inquiry, have offered, through nearly every newspaper in the land, a standing reward of $500 for a case of catarrh, which matter how bad or of how long standing, which they cannot cure. The remedy is sold by all druggists at only 50 cents. It is mild, soothing, cleansing, deodorizing, antiseptic and healing.

POOR TINA.

Her Parents Impatiently Waiting to See Her.

They Fear She Has Become a Household Drudge.

Her Father Wanted Her to Go to School and Not to Work.

The Arguments for the Amendment Growing Stronger and Stronger.

THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT.

(Drawn by a well-known Supreme Court Judge.)
All proceedings under this section (Sec. 201, Chap. 678, Code of Laws, and Chap. 108, Laws of 1888) shall have been made, shall be subject to review by any court of record, upon application on the facts and the law, and in such a proceeding the commitment or order of judgment may be affirmed or reversed or modified in such manner and to such extent as may seem best, or a rehearing of the charge ordered.

The parents and friends of little Tina Weiss are still impatiently awaiting the summons which Vice-President Tuska and Director Allen, of the United Hebrew Charities, promised to send them as soon as arrangements had been made to bring Tina back to the city.

The residence of her present guardians is still unknown to them; but the fact that it may be one or even two days' journey from the city ought not, they think, to be made the occasion of any further delay in producing the child.

It is now more than a week since the promise was given, and it was then understood that the parents would be given an opportunity of seeing Tina within a very few days, for Messrs. Allen and Tuska had had the case under consideration long before her details were made public by THE EVENING WORLD, although they had never made a personal investigation of the facts, until the storm of popular indignation had been aroused by the disclosures made in these columns.

Then, according to Mr. Tuska's own declaration to the reporter of THE EVENING WORLD, it had been found that Mr. Gerry's Society had made a serious mistake in refusing to give up the child to its parents, for he had no doubt whatever that they were respectable and industrious people, and perfectly competent to bring up their children in comfort and educate them properly.

This being the case, the reason for the present delay in fulfilling that promise is not understood, and it is feared that through the influence of Jenkins and his emissaries the child may be again spirited off to some out-of-the-way place, where it will be still more difficult to trace it.

It is also suggested that there is another difficulty to be encountered in the opposition of the present guardians to give up the child. When they adopted it they took legal papers of adoption and received a guaranty from Mr. Gerry's Society that no one could ever dispute their right to the custody of the child.

Although this guarantee was given with the knowledge on the part of the S. P. C. C. that both parents were living and anxious to get their child back, it is thought that it may give the present guardians a right to claim which could only be disputed in a court of law.

She is a child, it is feared by her parents that she is made to work for her living and is not being sent to school. The object of the father in bringing her with him alone to this country, as he said over and over again, was to place her in the free schools in this city so that she might get a good education.

She was growing up without any schooling in Russia, and being eleven years old and bright and clever beyond her years, he thought she could be learning something while he was working to bring over her wife and his other little child, who is now just about old enough to begin going to school.

"I don't want my child to work," said Mr. Weiss to THE EVENING WORLD to-day. "She is too young. I want her to go to school and get a good learning. If I can get her back again I will give bond to Mr. Gerry's Society or any other authority that I will keep her at school until she is seventeen years old, as he gets plenty of money to send for me. I want my daughter to grow up a well educated woman, and I want to have the satisfaction of giving her that education myself. It is bad enough to take her away from me and teach her to think that I am a bad, cruel father, when I always loved her better than anything else on earth. But, to put her at work washing dishes and doing drudgery for a household, it makes me almost crazy when I think of it."

"I knew where she was nothing would stop me from going and taking her away if I had to steal her."

Subscribers to the fund which Mrs. Koppelow is raising are increasing daily, and one of the most prominent bankers in the street has interested himself actively in the cause.

HE DECLINES THE BISHOPRIC.

Rev. Dr. Satterlee Will Remain in His Work at Calvary Church.

Much to the gratification of his parishioners, Rev. Dr. Henry Y. Satterlee, rector of Calvary Church, at Fourth avenue and Twenty-first street, has declined the bishopric of Michigan, which was lately tendered to him.

announcing his decision yesterday morning, Dr. Satterlee spoke of the plan of parish work which he had when he came to Calvary Church, and of his feeling that it was his duty to stand by that work and the building from the church spiritual who were laboring with him.

This is the second offer of a bishopric declined by Dr. Satterlee within a year, the other having come from Ohio.

QUEENSBERRY IN SECLUSION.

England's Sporting Marquis Invaluable at the Brevoort House.

The Marquis of Queensberry remains in strict seclusion at the Brevoort House, where he has given instructions that no one account is to be disturbed by visitors. He did not enter his name on the register, and it was only by accident that his arrival became known outside of the hotel, much to his disgust.

The notoriety attending the last visit of the titled Englishman in connection with the London Gaity troupe has caused him to shun all publicity, hence his desire to remain invisible.

A CHINESE BARON IN TOWN.

HE IS WORTH NINETY-THREE MILLION AND SOME ODD DOLLARS.

A Friend Attributes to Him Some Original Ideas of Viewing New York.—The Baron Is Older Than He Looks to Be, but Cannot Speak English.—His Fortune Teaches the Utility of Saving Pennies.

The Vanderbilt of the Flowery Kingdom. Baron Li Yen Pang, is in town, stopping temporarily at 35 Pell street.

His arrival was briefly chronicled in some of this morning's papers, but several inaccuracies occurred in the various reports, and these THE EVENING WORLD hastens to correct.

For instance, instead of being worth only $40,000,000, the Baron is credited with being the possessor of at least $93,757,219.55.

He was worth $93,757,220 when he reached New York last night, but had to give up 45 cents in car fare for himself and his retinue, going from the depot to his friend's home.

He stood the loss very well, and hopes to make it up to-day if business is good.

The Baron was born quite young, but began to grow old and long at once. He never stopped settling bigger until he was nearly six feet tall.

He is still growing old at last accounts, having lived more than fifty-three years.

He is in the dry-goods business in China, and has branch houses in nearly every large city in the world. His agents in Gotham are Messrs. Wing Wo Chong, of 35 Pell street, with whom he is stopping, and Sinn Quong, of 32 Mott street.

The Baron's education was somewhat neglected in his youth, and he cannot talk English. Therefore, he did not have the pleasure of an interview with a young man from THE EVENING WORLD who called to see him this morning, but a friend gave the reporter many interesting details of the Baron's career.

"The Baron heard so much in China about the size and magnificence of the East River Bridge that he determined to take a run over there to see it. As he is here, he will stop in and inspect the 'Tomb,' take a run around the block, eat dinner in Hitecho's celebrated coffee-house, in Park Row, and then hasten to Africa to join the expedition in search of Stanley. If he finds him he will offer him the largest salary ever paid a white man, to open a retail dry-goods store somewhere in Central Africa. He feels that such a store is bound to pay there, because he has read that the majority of the natives go about dressed only in natural tights."

"How did the Baron amass his wealth?" asked the reporter.

"By an original scheme. A penny in China is worth about 2 cents in copper here. It is alleged that in his youth the Baron saved up 100,000,000 pennies, which he snipped here and sold for old copper, thus getting a start in life. Since then he has gone on increasing his fortune, until to-day he is the richest man in China."

"How does he stand socially?"

"First rate. Why, he is a cousin of Li Hung Chang, the Premier of China."

SUICIDIST HERMAN KEIDEL.

His Employers Find Nothing in His Books to Explain His Self-Destruction.

The body of Herman F. Keidel, who committed suicide by shooting himself in the right temple, lay in the undertaking establishment at 524 Sixth avenue this morning, ready to be shipped for Baltimore this afternoon.

Keidel was the manager of the New York branch of William Knabe & Co., piano manufacturers. The warehouses of the concern are at 112 Fifth avenue. Keidel slept in the basement.

When Henry Campini, the porter, called with Keidel's breakfast yesterday morning he found his employer lying alongside the bathtub with a .38-calibre bullet-hole in his head.

SUING THE WIDOW HASSETT.

MRS. KEELER WANTS THE VALUE OF A HUSBAND'S AFFECTIONS.

She Put Them Down at $50,000 in Her Inventory, and Tells a Sad Story of Their Alienation.—Mrs. Hasset's Answer to the Charge—A Small Boy's Repetition of a Cook's Awkward Remarks.

One of the most singular of the phenomena of life is the rapidity with which the value of a husband who has been repeatedly informed by his wife that he is no account and a measly old thing rises when that same wife discovers that he has been smiling at and smiling on a wealthy rival in his affections.

This is doubtless what Lawyer William A. Keeler, who has an office at 335 Broadway, is now pondering upon.

In 1880 he married Mary, the daughter of Janitor Frederick Stanbridge, of the East Forty-second street school. She was a tall, straight, slender and little brunette of seventeen. He was a promising young lawyer of twenty-one years. A sweet little girl is the outcome of the union.

For six weeks Mrs. Keeler and the child have been with her parents, and through her counsel, ex-Judge W. T. Houston, late of the New Orleans bench, she sued Mrs. Sarah J. Hasset for the alienation of the affections of her husband who, she alleges, has been bewitched by the widow of the late Thomas Hasset.

Mrs. Keeler recites that Keeler's mother gave him a fine house in East Seventy-fifth street, and it was nicely furnished. That they were happy and well, and that she was a devoted wife, and that she was a devoted mother, and that she was a devoted daughter, and that she was a devoted sister, and that she was a devoted friend, and that she was a devoted neighbor, and that she was a devoted citizen, and that she was a devoted patriot, and that she was a devoted Christian, and that she was a devoted woman, and that
